Business Psychologists Sydney, Australia

YSC is one of the world's leading business psychology consulting companies. In addition to Sydney, YSC has offices in New York, San Francisco, Houston, Chicago, Philadelphia, Mexico City, London, Edinburgh, Düsseldorf, Arnhem, Johannesburg, Hong Kong and Mumbai. Every day we help organizations of all sizes to get the most out of their people. We do this through individual and team assessment and development, executive coaching and organizational consulting.

Our clients range in size from FTSE10 global multinationals through to government bodies and non-profit organizations. Our consultants, many of whom have significant industry experience, are among the most respected, pragmatic and knowledgeable individuals in our profession. Our level of client retention is something of which we are particularly proud. To this day, we continue to enjoy working with a number of clients who first retained us some 20 years ago, when we first started. Our culture is built around genuine relationships, collaboration, hard work, a drive towards exceptional results and confidence to work with ambiguity.

We are now looking to recruit two experienced consultants to the YSC Australia team. Successful applicants will bring intellectual challenge and edge to their environment and a real commitment to business development. Candidates will need to demonstrate outstanding insight with regard to individuals, teams and the culture of organisations – as well as the capacity to work with clients at the most senior levels in a relaxed yet professional manner. A post-graduate degree in Psychology would be highly desirable but not essential if you have a proven track record of success and can demonstrate extensive, relevant business experience in the following areas:

- Deep psychological assessment of senior leaders and executives
- Developing leaders and high performing teams
- Executive coaching
- Organizational consulting
- Workshop design and facilitation
- 360 feedback

If you are a dynamic and ambitious individual with a real passion for leadership consulting, creating meaning for executives and organizations, developing new business, managing client systems and innovating with colleagues to find the next big thing in our field, we'd love to hear from you.
